

Orbital Sound Appoints Pro Sound as Nemesis Audio Distributor for the Americas

Nemesis Audio, manufacturers of production audio playback and control solutions are pleased to announce an exclusive distribution agreement with New York based Pro-Sound to handle distribution of the entire range of Nemesis Audio products throughout North & South America and Canada.

Based in Midtown Manhattan, Pro Sound is run by industry veterans Jim Flynn and Andy Hilton who combine many years of industry experience with a hand-picked team of technical experts to handle sales and support operations across many audio disciplines including broadcast, theatre and concert touring.

“It’s great to be able to show a truly exclusive range of innovative products such as Nemesis Audio. Nemesis products are ground breaking and very well thought out and are already deployed on many theatre musicals in the USA. We aim to increase the line’s presence within this market area and further expand into new markets.” Andy Hilton, Pro-Sound CEO

Pro-Sound’s first outing with the Nemesis Audio product range will be at this year’s AES New York convention running from October 17th to October 19th on booth 548. Along with the Pro-Sound team, Nemesis Audio’s Richard Carter will be on hand to demonstrate the wealth of features the various products bring to the industry.

“With the ever increasing presence of Nemesis Audio products in the USA and around the world it was high time we started to look at a distribution arrangement to better handle sales, service back up and new releases in the USA and beyond. With products such as the CCS-2 Computer Control Switch and the popular Dante-SW Switch handling show control duties on many major musicals on Broadway and the wider USA we wanted to bring more local support and service opportunities to Nemesis users. Pro-Sound are the perfect choice, they combine industry experience with a great team and offer a second to none service on all the products they handle.” Chris Headlam, Nemesis Audio Managing Director
